Malta Startup Residence Programme

A sparkling jewel, set in the heart of the Mediterranean, the island nation of Malta is consistently ranked as one of the world's top countries to live in terms of political freedom, climate, education, community and quality of life.

Malta has also enjoyed strong economic growth, with rising property prices and a boom in the traditionally service-based economy with the development of the islands as a centre for international trade and finance. Supported by EU-membership, a highly-respected regulatory environment, a beneficial tax regime, a stable banking system and a highly educated and English-speaking workforce – Malta is consistently seen as one of the best global locations from which to do business.

As a business-friendly jurisdiction, Malta is a hotbed for many existing and pioneering industries – with particular recent growth in technology-led innovation projects, encompassing fintech, gaming, AI, and next-gen communications. Such industries are supported by a strong technical and technological base – both in terms of infrastructure and local manpower.

Furthermore, with a highly-competitive 'cost of doing business' rating, and the ease with which Malta is known for setting up and structuring cost-effective and efficient structures within the wider EU market has led to a significant growth in high-tech and service-led corporate structures within the Maltese archipelago.

Bolstering what is already a formidable offering, we have seen the introduction of the Malta Startup Residence Programme ("MSRP") – a Programme that incorporates business start-ups and residency and is aimed at Non-Europeans, enabling them to bring their innovative business ideas to a European market with access to the rest of the world.

Under this Programme, those who set up a startup in Malta, benefit from a three-year residency permit for themselves and their immediate family. The founders of a start-up can renew residency for another five years. Core employees, earning more than €30,000 yearly, can renew their residence for a further three years.

Business Requirements

To be eligible for this Programme an individual must satisfy the following requirements:

– Have a concrete intention to develop and/or expand their business in Malta

– Be the founder or the co-founder of an enterprise, which has been registered for not more than seven (7) years anywhere globally (including Malta), and which fulfils the following:

- has not taken over the activity of another enterprise,
 - has not yet distributed profit,

– A co-founder would be one of the first entrepreneurs to have set-up the start-up

– Third country nationals, excluding EU, EEA and Swiss nationals are eligible applicants.

In cases where more than four (4) co-founders apply for the Startup Residence Permit, an additional €10,000 needs to be placed per additional co-founder. The maximum number of co-founders eligible for the Startup Residence Programme is six (6).
